

Spring 2007

Trusted, Leading, Local Solutions With One Point of Accountability

MARVIS SHIGETA-ROSA, Vice President/Chief Operating Officer

The federal government and healthcare community stakeholders are driving change in our community delivery model. The increased costs of providing care for patients, decreasing reimbursements, the government's needs for cost containment and a tight labor market have caused the marketplace to shift from simple (if one could ever call it simple) to complex. Government regulations for claims filing, quality care initiatives, P4P initiatives, algorithm development and reporting, community integration needs all point to the end of having just a software vendor.

TeamPraxis feels well positioned to respond to the needs of our local physicians through this time of rapid change and consolidation by providing continuity and stability. Our physicians can rely on TeamPraxis for trusted local, solutions with one point of accountability.