FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASENovant Health to Implement TeamPraxis Clinical Decision Support and Quality-Reporting Technology

Physician Group to Deploy Allscripts Clinical Quality Solution (CQS) Powered by TeamPraxis for 1,050 Physicians

Honolulu, HI and Winston-Salem, NC (September 30, 2008) – TeamPraxis, Hawaii’s premier physician management service organization (MSO) that provides technology and support services to more than 1,000 physicians in Hawaii, today announced that Novant Health has selected the TeamPraxis-developed Allscripts Clinical Quality Solution (CQS) for their physicians in facilities throughout North and South Carolina.

Novant Health is a not-for-profit integrated group of hospitals and physician clinics, ranked as one of our nation’s 10 best healthcare systems -- caring for patients and communities in North and South Carolina. Novant employs 24,000 people and has more than 1,000 physicians in its medical group. Novant’s physicians will use CQS to automate the burdensome quality reporting requirements of federal pay-for-performance programs and to access real-time clinical decision support information to improve the quality of patient care.

"Novant Health is committed to providing our patients with the highest quality of care possible with every visit, and we wanted an automated way for our physicians to participate in pay-for-performance initiatives," said Dr. A. J. Patefield, MD, Sr. Vice President of Novant Medical Group. "The Allscripts Clinical Quality Solution addresses those goals by providing actionable data to physicians at the point of care."

Pay-for-performance programs aim to lower the overall cost of healthcare by providing financial bonuses to physicians who deliver high quality care. The Allscripts Clinical Quality Solution Powered by TeamPraxis is able to show Novant physicians during the patient visit how the patient is doing relative to standards of care guidelines. Actions taken during the visit are then reflected in the physician’s pay-for-performance quality scores.

“We are pleased to bring Novant Health onboard and look forward to a successful implementation of CQS,” said TeamPraxis President and Chief Executive Officer Creighton Arita. “It has been our mission to help physicians across the nation to deliver higher quality care. We anticipate that through our partnership with Allscripts, other enterprise medical groups on the mainland will follow Novant’s lead and select CQS to eliminate manual reporting processes and allow physicians to focus on providing quality care to their patients.”

The new client relationship with Novant Health is a result of TeamPraxis’ recent partnership with Allscripts (Nasdaq: MDRX) to integrate CQS into its Electronic Health Record (EHR) and Practice Management (PM) systems. The partnership includes an agreement to market and resell the solution to Allscripts’ client base of more than 40,000 physicians nationwide.
